Labor Summer

Labor Summer is a full-time, PAID, intensive eight-week educational internship program.

The UC Berkeley Center for Labor Research and Education (Labor Center) and co-sponsor San Francisco Central Labor Council are offering students an opportunity to spend their summer learning about social and economic justice and reflecting on the intersections of race, class, and gender and immigration in the labor movement. Students learn from and work with labor and community organizations in Northern and Central California, applying their skills in real-world settings on issues vital to the state's working people.

Undergraduate and graduating senior interns will be paid $15.00 per hour. Graduate student interns will be paid $18.18 per hour.

Applications due Monday, February 26 at 11:59 PM

15 LEVELS OF TEZCATLIPOCA

Thursday, February 22, 2018

6- 9PM; MI CASA, GARCIA 860

.....
Visiting Scholar:

PATRICIA
CHICUEYI
COATL

.....

The Anahuacan ancestors knew how to understand the movement of the Cosmos. Yet, they first took a deep dive into who they really were, into each one of their weaknesses, shortcomings, and flaws. This painful journey allowed them to then master who they really were, thus allowing them to know their origins as cosmic beings. This lecture will provide an introductory understanding of the science of Tezcatlipoca and its several levels to familiarize folks with the different levels of introspective work needed to heal and clean themselves.
